

Chart 2. THE SINTI AND ROMA

Unit 1

Dr Ritter, Research Institute of Racial Hygiene:

We have identified the Roma as totally primitive people of ethnic origin, whose mental retardation renders them incapable of real social adaptation... The Gypsy question can only be resolved when... reproduction of this population of mixed blood is stopped once and for all.

Johannes Behrendt, Office of Racial Hygiene:

All Gypsies should be treated as hereditarily sick; the only solution is elimination. The aim should therefore be the elimination without hesitation of this defective element in the population.

The Sinto Max Friedrich (shown here with his wife Grete around 1941) came from a traveling family. He was drafted into the Wehrmacht in 1941 but expelled a year later for 'racial reasons'. In early March 1943, he and his wife Grete and their five children were deported to Auschwitz. Many German Sinti fought for Germany not only in the First World War but also in the Wehrmacht from 1939 on. In 1941, the German high command ordered all 'Gypsies and Gypsy half-breeds' to be dismissed from active military service for 'racial-political reasons'. - How, in his view, could the 'Gypsy question' be resolved?
- Why did Johannes Behrend state that Gypsies (Sinti and Roma) should be eliminated?
- What situations are shown in the photographs?
- What are individual people doing in these photographs? How could they have felt then?
- What did the photographer want to show with these photographs? What do they tell us today?
- Why was Max Friedrich expelled from the Army and then deported to Auschwitz with his family?

Search for additional information and think:

- Who were Dr Robert Ritter and Eva Justin?
- What did their anthropological and racial studies entail?
- What was their significance for the Holocaust of the Sinti and Roma?
- What was the fate of Dr Ritter and Eva Justin after the war?

Unit 3

The Roma girl Settela Steinbach staring out of a deportation train in the Westerbork camp.

Settela was born in 1934 in Limburg, the Netherlands.

During the war, she was imprisoned in the Westerbork camp. On 19 May, 1944, along with other family members, she was deported to Auschwitz-Birkenau, where she was murdered. Yad Vashem

An excerpt from an account of Jerzy Adam Brandhuber, an Auschwitz prisoner:

Brought in at the start of 1943 the Gypsies placed in section B11e in Birkenau walked around in their civilian clothing. On the left front of their outer clothing they wore a sewed on upside down black triangle. On the right side of the triangle slightly downward was the letter Z (from the word 'Zigeuner') and alongside a prisoner's number (...). As for the Gypsies from section B11e, we were instructed before their arrival to prepare 30,000 rag tags in the Bekleidungskammer with the above described insignia that they later wore.

An excerpt from an account of Helmut Clemens on the medical experiments of Dr. Mengele.

I was there when Mengele sought out twins for his experiments. I had to bring them to him and he gave them special numbers. I was not allowed to be present during the experiments. He then always sent me somewhere. One time, I accidentally happen to be in the room where Mengele conducted his experiments. I saw how he gave the children eye-drops with some liquid after which they had greatly enlarged pupils. Several days later I saw the corpses of these children in the morgue.

An excerpt from a testimony of Vera Alexander, a Jew who survived Auschwitz:

One pair of twins called Guido and Nina was barely older than four. Mengele picked them up and brought them back mutilated in a perverse way. They had been sewn together at the back like Siamese twins. Mengele had also connected their veins. Their wounds were suppurating, they cried day and night. Their mother, I remember that she was called Stella, had somehow been able to get hold of some morphine and used it to put an end to the suffering of her children.

When I went in [to the camp hospital], the children cried and asked, 'Uncle, give bread, give sugar' For me those were the most difficult moments I experienced in the camp. Not the beating, not the interrogation, but those children.

in the 'Gypsy' camp at Auschwitz-Birkenau

EXERCISES:

Look at the photographs, read the texts and answer the following questions:

- From where and in what conditions were the Roma deported to Auschwitz?
- In what part of the Auschwitz II-Birkenau camp were the Roma placed?
- How were they marked? In what conditions did they live?
- Who was Dina Gottliebova? What task did she perform for Dr Mengele at the Auschwitz camp?
- What did Helmut Clemens do at the 'Gypsy family camp' in Auschwitz?
How does he recall Dr Mengele and his medical experiments?
- Who are the victims of Dr Josef Mengele's experiments? What did they entail?
- Why was the visit to the hospital for Roma children at the Gypsy camp in Auschwitz by Dr Frantisek Janouch the most difficult time during his stay at the camp?

Search for additional information and think:

- What is the story behind the photograph of Stella Steinbach? Who identified her and when?
Why was she for years considered a Jewish girl?
- When and for what purpose did the Germans set up a Gypsy family camp in Auschwitz?
In what conditions were the Sinti and Roma held there? What was their fate?

Serbs and Gypsies rounded up for deportation marched to the Jasenovac concentration camp under Ustashe guard, 1942–1943. USHMM

An excerpt from an account of Krešimir Vinaj, an artisan from Dalj on the deportation of Roma.

I am aware that a municipal notary in Dalj, together with the local militia and armed men, arrested all members of eleven Gypsy families from Dalj, on one night in June 1942. This had been ordered by one named Katić, district commander from Osijek. The other day members of these gypsy families were taken to a concentration camp from where they never returned. These gypsies were craftsmen, tough-makers, and were honest and hardworking citizens...

Ustashe guards in the Jasenovac concentration camp stripping newly arrived prisoners of their personal possessions, 1941–1945. USHMM

A testimony of Joka Nikolić, a Roma survivor from Šarapovo near Čazma.

They have opened our wagon. There is no station. On my left I see a tall chimney, on my right the settlement. On the left I notice a large group of people milling around, some kind of interaction, commotion. Yes, that is the factory. I thought so. They forced us out of the wagons, and lined us up. Both sides, from the wagon to the camp area, at that time

I did not know it was a camp, let alone that I was in Jasenovac, were lined with Ustashe. They led us down to some sort of shed and took all of our belongings. They took everything, things of value, as well as things that could not have possibly had any value.

We are ordered to form a column. An Ustashe in front of us. Leading us somewhere. We pass by a lake. They take us to some kind of wire surrounded area. I mean, this was hard to watch, let alone talk about how hard it was to experience it personally.

An excerpt from an account of Stjepan Nikolić from Velika Gorica on the killing of Roma in Jasenovac:

Me and other 34 gypsies were separated from a large group and assigned to work on potato digging and weeding ... On the same day, our wives and children were taken to the dug-out pits, which were 6 x 8 m in length, and 3 or 4 meters high, and were killed there, children too. I went to work on cleaning the railway for eight days, that is how long I stayed in Jasenovac, and every day I saw large groups of gypsies, several hundred accompanied by Ustashe, to the pits and killing them... When the hole was filled with corpses, they were not all dead immediately, first, they were covered with a thin layer of earth and then with lime, and each time I saw the surface of that hole moving, which I believe happened because people were still alive ...

Stjepan Nikolić from Velika Gorica on the killing of Roma in Jasenovac
(from the Public Prosecutor's Office records, District in Velika Gorica, in 1952)

An excerpt from testimony of Toso Mitrovic from the village of Novi Jankovci about executions in the camp.

I was taken to the camp in 1942 in May, with me another 830 gypsies were sent to Jasenovac... While we were in the camp, me and the others that managed to escape, we saw Ustashe killing people with hammers, sticks, axes, shotguns, bombs, pistols, and all other means. When they were killing children and women, I was only 810 meters away, and when we looked they ordered us to turn to the other side and that time my four children were killed, both my wife and my mother.
